A timeless masterpiece

It was once upon a time. Not quite such a very long time ago. About 150 years.

William was a barber. Penhaligon was his name.

He had left behind his Cornish sea, took a train and before long was hanging the sign with his name above the new barber's shop on Jermyn Street.

What was to follow was a haze of fragrant dreams.

What-ho! As dry and fresh as the best gin – or the best of British humour. Lemon, black pepper and pine. This eau de toilette was first created for the Duke of Marlborough, and by jove it shows.

A mysterious black rose

It was once upon a time. Not quite such a very long time ago. About 150 years.
William was a barber. Penhaligon was his name.

He had left behind his Cornish sea, took a train and before long was hanging the sign

What was to follow was a haze of fragrant dreams.

So this is love. An intoxicating, mysterious fragrance:
Vigorous grapefruit, Levantine spice and rose tangle in the moonlight.
But what's that upon the riverbank? Could it be the fabled black rose?
